

Speaker Profile

SAIGA
Developing Ethical Public Sector Professionals

Bongani Mahlangu is a thinker with abilities in panel discussion and workshop facilitation, MC skills, broadcast and general media interviewing skills. He is a communication and media strategist, has writing, editing, journalistic skills, events conceptualizing and project Management skills.

Mahlangu regularly guested as a socio political analyst and commentator on Power FM's Weekend Breakfast show hosted by Pabi Moloi. He was also a socio political columnist for the Sunday Sun newspaper from 2017 to early 2019.

He was newspaper editor for arts, entertainment, culture and lifestyle for the Sunday World and The New Age. A founder, publisher and editor of a cultural magazine titled MusikMag.

He boasts over twenty years media experience. His media career got kicked as a radio broadcaster in 1997 at a community station called Can-I FM where he wrote, edited and read news, produced programs, hosted music shows. At Can-I FM, he rose to the position of program and music manager.

Has been a guest commentator on music, entertainment and arts on a number of television shows such as SABC's week-end live and e.TV's Sunrise. Mahlangu previously hosted an Arts and Culture talk show on North West FM.

SAIGA ANNUAL CONFERENCE 2021
"CITIZENS COME FIRST"

Bongani Mahlangu

MC

Got to analyse music and culture on the then Phemelo Motene's Life Happens on SAFM. Previously contributed arts and entertainment commentary on Radio 2000's breakfast at a time the show got hosted by Justice Ramohlola. Was arts and entertainment news commentator on Bob Mabena's Power Jams on Power FM and on Dudu Khoza's Friday show on uKhozi FM.

Mahlangu has conducted/facilitated workshops for and or made presentations on media related topics at companies like Vodacom and handled media relations for ciders such Halewood International owned RedSquare and for Transnet's talent search competition Rising Starz